JUMPS IN RIVER

Escapes Death by Fall on Rocks, but Is Seriously Injured.

Joseph H. Bowles, of 509 West Eleventh Street, Manchester, attempted suicide early yesterday morning by jumping from the Manchester end of the Free Bridge.

George Morris, bridge keeper, was the first person to see Mr. Bowles take what will probably prove to be a fatal leap. He stood gazing at the water a few minutes, and then, as if suddenly making up his mind, climbed over the railing, stood perched for an instant, and then plunged into the water below. He landed in a rock pocket, but rose to the surface, and Luther Roach, who was out rowing, caught hold of him or anajor Price's incumbency, will be held on April 25.

These officers, who had been in touch with the situation in the City Council, were confident that the Grounds and Buildings Committee, and the Council itself, were entirely favorable to some sort of plan which will not only made the armory fit for use, but will, in fact, put it in better condition than before the existing troubles began. The details of the plan are, of course, not yet worked out.

It is intended to have drills in the street for the present, this being the usual custom in the summer. During the work of repair or remodeling, whichever it may be, temporary quarters for the storage of equipment and for company meetings will probably be secured in some nearby building.

Sergeant to Return.

On April 14 Sergeant Mike Powers, of the United States Army, one of the two men detailed to instruction work with the Virginia troops by the War Department, will return to Richmond and will spend two weeks with the First Battalien, attending the drills and imparting instruction.

Several events are ahead for the battalion. It will march in the Oakwood Memorial parade on May 7, with the Hebrew Memorial on May 15, and with the Hollywood 'celebration on May 30.

Last night's meeting was attended by practically every battalion officer, including those of the Hospital Corps, Good feeling was shown, and there were indications that a determined effort will be made to put the command on the pest possible storing.
